Welcome

Welcome to the first edition of 'The Villager', the new magazine for the villages of Horsington and South Cheriton.

A number of residents have felt for some time that the villages could enhance their sense of community through the publication of a magazine. This would act as a form of communication, information, entertainment and advertisement for the area, covering news and events. To that end a series of meetings was held during the winter and a small Committee was formed to manage the set-up and ongoing production of such a publication, supported by a team of distributors, proof readers, etc.

It will be independent in status, not belonging to any particular organization, and will aim to be inclusive by covering all residents of the two villages. So please feel free to contribute in any way you feel able. The magazine will be as useful and appealing as you make it so we welcome your active involvement in producing a magazine that is of wide interest each month.

Our purpose is to make the content as comprehensive as possible in terms of the activities and events occurring within the area so do let us know if you are involved in organising any event that you wish to be advertised in the magazine. It will include a diary of village events and a list of contact names and telephone numbers for the many regular activities that take place in the villages. It will also be a place to publicise forthcoming talks, concerts and other events. An exchange of services offered or needed, such as babysitting, cleaning, gardening, etc, could be included. Also there could be space for personal announcements from residents such as births, marriages and special anniversaries.

We will publish and distribute the magazine to every household free of charge on a monthly basis, except for August and January. The contents of the Parish Newsletter, produced by Reverend Peter Hallett, will effectively be subsumed within this new magazine. The Committee would like to take this opportunity to thank Peter and his team for their excellent work in producing their newsletter and for his guidance in the setting-up of this new publication.

An open meeting for all residents of the two villages will be held at the Half Moon at 7.30pm on Tuesday 12th April to gain feedback on the magazine and to hear your suggestions for future improvement. Why not come along and let us have your views?

Here's one of my favourite recipes – a delicious and easy dish for a family supper or a supper to share with friends

Chicken & Broccoli Casserole

By Brenda Graney

Serves 4

*1 cooked chicken or equivalent chicken flesh
450 grams/1lb. broccoli - cooked
1 can condensed chicken soup
2 teaspoons curry powder
2 tablespoons salad cream
100 gram/4oz. crushed potato crisps
Black pepper
A pinch of cayenne pepper*

Heat the oven to 180C/Gas Equivalent

*Strip all the meat off the chicken and cut into pieces
Remove all skin and bones.*

Heat the soup, curry powder and salad cream. Thin the sauce with a little water (about half a soup tin, but this is personal preference)

Season the sauce with black pepper and cayenne

Arrange broccoli in bottom of a casserole dish, place chicken over the broccoli, then pour over the soup mixture

Sprinkle the crisps on top

Bake in the oven at 180 deg C or gas equivalent for about 25 minutes

Serve with jacket potatoes and salad, or vegetables

BIRD WATCH

Birds of the Season

April is a wonderful month in the birding calendar. It sees many of our migrant birds return from warmer lands in Africa and the Mediterranean. Swallows and House Martins start streaming in from the south along with the early warblers such as Chiffchaff, Blackcap and Willow Warbler. The easiest way to find them in large numbers is to take a trip to Sutton Bingham reservoir south of Yeovil. This large expanse of water has a high concentration of insect life, and these migrants gather here first to feed voraciously to replace energy lost on their long migration flights.

They will soon disperse, however, and we should see all of them in and around our Parish before the end of the month. We are particularly favoured by Swallows because the Blackmore Vale has many dairy farms and their pasture land and barns provide plentiful insect food and nesting opportunities.

Our earliest summer migrant is the Chiffchaff. It is a small, plain, brownish-green bird, very similar to the Willow Warbler, but the easiest way to spot one is to listen out for its distinctive song – a metallic “chiff - chaff”. Each year it is a thrill to hear the first one. It reassures us that the natural world is still working despite climate change and loss of habitat.

There are lots of Blackcaps too. The males have a distinctive black cap and the females a reddish one, above a grey body. All three of these early migrant warblers can be seen in our gardens and hedgerows now but they can be very difficult to pin down once the leaves are out.

Towards the end of April we should hear our first Cuckoo. The distinctive call of the male bird is trying to attract a female and she responds with a bubbling trill. Sadly, Cuckoo numbers have declined by sixty five per cent since the 1980’s so it is becoming more difficult to hear one. The cause of their decline is unknown but it may be due to changing conditions in sub-Saharan Africa where they spend their winters.

Whilst our returning migrants bring a buzz of excitement, our resident birds are also hard at work. The dawn chorus is now in full voice long before sunrise with Song Thrushes leading the way, followed by Great Tits, Blackbirds and Wrens. Everywhere you look birds are carrying nesting material. Male Wrens are particularly busy, as one will build as many as six “cock’s nests” and his mate will choose just one and line it with feathers before laying up to seven tiny eggs. Wrens in particular will need to have a good breeding year to replace the ones that perished in the snow and cold weather we had in December.

Let’s hope for a mild and reasonably dry spell for them.

The school production is almost upon us. A time of mixed emotions for parents – excitement, nerves, pride, stress over costume making and admiration for the hard work of staff and children.

“The First Kids in Space” is a musical written for children. There is a script but children and staff are given some artistic licence to enhance the story and the improvisations are worth looking out for! Limelight can prove addictive and small roles can turn into epic performances!

Careful consideration is given to choosing a theme that is relevant to boys and girls of all ages. It can be a challenge finding a suitable text for such a large number of children. Horsington staff know their pupils well and choose plays to fit particular characters. There is increased interest in music, dance and song in this X Factor generation, particularly from boys.

Obviously a valuable Performing Arts tool - what else does the production offer? Skills development in Art and Design (costume and prop making) and Literacy (reading and learning of lines and songs) and the personal and social elements that Mrs Alexander is passionate about. The performance unites the school. Every child is encouraged to participate and those whose skills are best suited to backstage or set design are valued as highly as the actors. Will the experience cement the children’s scientific knowledge of Space? Quite possibly, yes. The child who has the honour of playing Neptune may always remember the order of the planets by thinking back to the order he and his counterparts filed on stage! I know the children (and indeed some of the mothers!)

have now added ‘Android’ to their vocabulary!

I asked some of the children for their thoughts on the production. The youngest are excited by their costumes and like the story. The older children think it’s ‘ace’. They admit it is hard work learning their lines but they ‘absolutely love it’. When pressed, they manage to find one negative - perhaps the rehearsals should interrupt lessons rather than break time!

Mrs Alexander is self-deprecating about her role, describing herself as ‘an enthusiastic rather than talented musician’. Talent aside, it is the enthusiasm and tremendous dedication from all the teachers and support staff which make this incredibly ambitious project come together, and such commitment is not only infectious for the children but also a great example for them.

As a mother to one of our younger stars (quite literally), I am yet to experience my first big production. I have a feeling it will be something that we will both remember for a long time to come. Good luck to all!

Dear friends

I welcome the launch of this new village magazine. The Church Newsletter that has been distributed for some time attempted what I expect this to do better.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the people who contributed items to that Newsletter, and those who faithfully delivered it, come rain, come shine, over the years. It's no good producing a newsletter if no one contributes items. And it's no good producing the best magazine in the land if we don't get it out there! So we owe a debt of gratitude to all those folk.

Some years ago, we found in Henstridge that folk didn't know what was going on in their own village. This inspired us to produce a village magazine with the simple aim of solving that problem. If we are to be a community rather than a collection of folk who just happen to live in the same place, we need to communicate with each other - and do things with each other.

Easter lies at the heart of the church's year - it is about God beginning to renew the world. At its best, the church acts to bring that about here and now. Part of that is making this a good place to be - I pray this magazine helps achieve that.

Garden Watch

THE GARDEN IN APRIL With Muddy Wellies

A new village magazine and a new gardening year, at last it is Spring, after cruelly cold winter months. Now we discover how much damage weeks of sub zero temperatures have caused.

Some supposedly more tender plants may surprise us by bursting forth a bit later than usual. Don't be too quick to dig up and chuck out plants. The grass starts to grow, mower blades are lowered and we see the striped lawns appearing, summer will soon be here. Don't mulch your plants with grass cuttings which contain weed seeds. You can put cuttings on the compost heap, but not in great quantity and it is best to mix with shredded paper and layer with other compostable material. Now is a good time to lay turf. The soil should be warming up and rain is likely – if not it will need watering.

Tie in climbers and wall shrubs, plant evergreen trees, shrubs, climbers, heathers and pot grown wall shrubs. Rhododendrons and Azaleas can be planted out or transplanted if outgrown their allotted space. Hard prune Forsythia after flowering. Cut back Buddleja davidii, Hydrangeas, hardy Fuchsias, shrubby Mallows, Dogwoods, Willows and winter flowering Jasmine. Trim Lavenders.

Plant late flowering perennials and summer flowering bulbs and corms, such as Gladioli, together with spring raised Sweet Peas. Towards the end of the month Dahlia tubers can start to go out. Half Hardy Annuals, such as Calendula and Nasturtiums can be sown where they are to flower. Deep water and Marginal Aquatics should be planted and overgrown Water-Lilies lifted, divided and replanted. Indoors start fortnightly feeds to overwintered plants such as Fuchsias and Pelargoniums.

Hoe frequently in dry weather to keep weeds down in herb and vegetable beds, and water during dry spells. Earth up Potatoes as growth develops, cover leaves with fleece, straw or newspaper if frost forecast. Continue to plant out Onion sets, summer Cabbage and herb plants. Sow more salad crops, Fennel, Parsley, Dill, Purple Sprouting Broccoli, winter Cabbage and late summer Cauliflowers outdoors. Tomato plants can be put in the greenhouse.

A word of warning, as the weather warms up and you stand back to admire all your hard work the slugs and aphids will be smacking their lips and preparing to enjoy the tasty new shoots appearing!

Evelene Ruddock died at the age of 95, on January 8th, the 16th anniversary of her husband's death. A prominent and much-loved member of our village community, Evelene, with her husband Reg, moved to Horsington some 35 years ago on Reg's retirement as Rector of Holton.

Evelene was like everyone's mother and grandmother, always warm and good-natured, never critical, always interested to hear news of everybody's families, though never remotely intrusive. She was an active member of St. John's Church until she died, and hosted a regular house-group at her home. In her 80's she took up a long-neglected love and restarted piano lessons. She put her heart into it, taking it seriously and practising regularly. She was still having her regular piano lesson less than a month before she died. Her funeral (taken by her son Rev. Edgar Ruddock) was a celebration of a life well-lived. The church was full, and in a heart-touching tribute her great-grand children brought helium-filled balloons to the Chancel where her coffin lay. Her son led us in "Three Cheers for Evelene", which as he pointed out, was a very un-Anglican thing to do! But we all felt it was right as she had enriched the lives of all who knew her.

All her friends and family were there in a tribute to a greatly-loved and respected lady.

St Margaret's Village Hall

The management committee are delighted to announce that the hall, located between Horsington and South Cheriton, has again been awarded Hall Mark One status. This Michelin star equivalent is testament to the excellent management of the facility by a happy band of enthusiastic volunteers all of whom give their time and expertise freely. We are grateful to the wider community for your support.

A growing number of football teams are using the changing rooms and adjacent pitches. Activities in the hall include pilates, dance, art, Zumba, upholstery and badminton. There is equipment stored for a parent toddler group. This has folded due to a lack of toddlers but should any one wish to restart it the committee would love to help.

The Hall is available to hire for parties, dances, concerts, films, plays or band practice. It has a beautiful sprung wooden floor, marked out for badminton. The gallery above can be used for film projection. Alcohol may be served if a TENS licence is obtained. There is full disability access with the normal facilities and good level parking for about 50 cars. Seated events can accommodate up to 125, dances up to 140 people. A modular stage is available and can be used as a simple dais, cat walk or normal stage for productions either in the round or against the wall. For further information contact the bookings secretary (see contacts list for details).

The Hall is maintained by fund raising activities including concerts and the Annual Village Dinner (in September this year).

The committee would like to wish the new Magazine every success and I would like to thank you all for your continuing support.
